

Inspiration

It is hard to be told
To forget the truth,
Especially when that truth
Is personal.
Revealed truth,
Not merely found upon a page,
However sacred that page may be,
But shining deeply in,
Bringing light
Where once there was confusion.
The page itself made brighter
With light from its Creator,
The One who caused the writing on that page,
Now shining brightly out
Through every word,
Deep calling to deep.
Just as the writer needed light to write,
So I now find that precious light
Taking hold of his reality
And making it mine.
